

Color a Signet Ring!

In the 17th century, important documents often had a wax seal. Signet rings were used to stamp the wax with a personal crest. This signet ring likely belonged to William Strachey and shows his family crest of a "displayed" eagle. Strachey was the secretary of the Jamestown colony in 1610 and 1611. His letter describing a shipwreck might have inspired William Shakespeare to write the play The Tempest!
